Understanding Global Extremism and the Domestic Threat

Understanding Islam and Arab culture is essential to understanding the mindset of Islamic fundamentalists and their potential for embracing extremism. This class will provide historical, geographical, political, and cultural information regarding Arabs and Muslims, and the impact they have had on the Middle Eastern region, as well as the entire world. This class will also include information on the radicalization process, inmate radicalization concerns, and the growing domestic threat. A discussion regarding the importance of developing relationships with Arab and Muslim communities through community involvement and outreach will be facilitated.
